Meeting Comments

- I had the impression that the Swiss committee had a definite prejudice in mind before meeting with the African guests.
- When visitors arrived at the site and found no one there, they should have assumed they were being treated in a superior manner.
- If I were in the visitors' position, I would likewise feel like I was in a hierarchical structure. And the action would not put the guest in a positive frame of mind.
- To make a better impression, it might be preferable to act respectfully.
- It would also provide the world a positive impact, as traditional and social media are widely used in most countries.
